The WABA Secretariat would like to thank Lakshmi Menon especially for compiling and putting together this resource. Lakshmi Menon is a trained librarian with over 25 years experience in academic libraries and development organisations. She has devised a classification system with a feminist perspective and has helped set up appropriate information systems in India and abroad. Her main field of interest is information dissemination which she does through research and publications which include: Pests at Home: a consumer guide to safer pest control; Organising Strategies in Women's Health: an information and action handbook; The Akshara Handbook: an alternative classification and documentation system; Asia-Pacific Post-Beijing Implementation Monitor: Health; Understanding Urbanisation: a sourcebook; Gender Training Assessment: a report and handbook; Laypersons' Guide to Medicines. She is also actively involved in the consumer, health and women's movement.
